

EDITORIAL MESSAGE
“Care for Self is Selfishness Caring for others is Godliness”

Nurses are next to god in wiping the tears of sick & sufferers. Nurses dedicate themselves in rendering services for public irrespective caste, creed, race, financial status etc. Nurses are selfless service renderer in the society. Thus, Nurses are Noblest Professionals.

Such Nurses are been greeted, appreciated, celebrated all over the world once in a year on 12th May in the name of „International Nurses Day“, declared to be celebrated as the birth anniversary of the founder of Modern Nursing, The Florence Nightingale. Some countries celebrate „National Nurses Day“ also like us on 6th May every year.

These celebrations are all to recognize the contributions & commitments of the pivotal force in the health care delivery system 24x7 – „The Nurses“. The theme for this year IND is Nurses: A Force for change: Care effective, Cost effective.

Nursing is the largest health care profession in the world and nurses are the key of achieving the Millennium Development Goals.

Nurses are well trained and educated for maintaining the health and wellness of the patients through all the aspects like psychosocially, socially etc.

Nurses work with government & Non-Governmental organization to strengthen the health care systems as well as create conditions maximizing the contributions to public health. Nurses are innovatively practicing to provide free health checkup, indicating their willingness of improving the health of staffs, to meet all the needs of patients & their well being.

Dr. Renuka K
Editor In Chief